Are you ready?

The housing market is changing. While some see a downturn, others see increased business for contractors and builders who can meet rising consumer demand for energy efficient, environmentally-friendly homes.

Attend the PA Home Energy Conference 2008

- Become an expert in diagnosing and fixing a home's energy efficiency, air quality, and comfort - with bigger jobs and higher profits
- Meet successful contractors, builders, and raters who have transformed their businesses using the Home Performance with ENERGY STAR® and ENERGY STAR® Qualified Homes programs
- See diagnostic tools in action and talk with product vendors who can help you solve problems for your customers
- Learn which business models will work best for your company
- Find resources and help with marketing and sales

Who should attend?

Everyone involved in the residential building and remodeling business - subs, remodelers, HVAC, air sealing, and insulation contractors, weatherization providers, program managers, code officials, home inspectors, raters, builders, building performance consultants, and energy efficiency professionals.

Conference Registration

Conference fees are $95.00 per person, which includes Tuesday night reception, Wednesday breakfast, lunch, and refreshments, conference sessions, exhibits, and demonstrations. Group discounts are available. See registration form.
